

United Nations Secretary General's Study on Violence Against Children

Study outline

▶ Introduction and overview

Background information and models for understanding the global context of the situation and conditions in which children live and how it affects their vulnerability to violence - including culture, language, ethnicity, disability, and gender; and the impact of violence on children's development

▶ Overview of State obligations, legal frameworks and agreements intended to promote prevention of violence and responses to protect children from violence

▶ Violence in the home and family

▶ Violence in schools and education settings

▶ Violence in other institutional settings (orphanages, etc)

▶ Violence in the community and on the streets, including children in conflict with the law

▶ Violence in work situations

▶ Conclusions and recommendations, including monitoring and research priorities to improve our knowledge and practice